I have checked your account, and I can confirm that your request is currently with our finance department for review. Because this is a secure verification process, it takes a little time to ensure your transaction is handled correctly and safely.
While I do not have the system access to manually release the funds or bypass this security check, I can assure you that your case is actively being monitored and has not been forgotten. The team typically requires up to 12 hours to complete this stage of the review.
Please check back with us after this timeframe, and I will be more than happy to get you the latest status.
